

We are working on a new podcast! It will feature nitty-gritty information about best use of different types of resources in online research, best practices, and best evidence (aka genie hygiene).

It will help you to go from paper to people, to gain an understanding of your ancestors' lives and make them less abstract than a line on a census record in scary handwriting.

No timeframe yet, but I'd say keep your eyes and ears open for a debut this Summer.
