

Want to start learning the basics of how to use logic as well as rules to assemble a strong online family tree? It's all happening! Starting April 7th at 7pm Eastern Time, I'm teaching a new series: How to Think About Genealogy. Collectively, we'll examine problems and solutions in Ancestry and FamilySearch. Maybe we'll work on your tree!

Right now (and for the first month), attendance at the live Zoom class is restricted to members of my Patreon and Facebook groups. I want it to grow slowly. But, every recording will be edited and posted on YouTube a week later, and the audio will go out as a podcast episode. If you want to be notified of future video releases, follow my channel.

I hope to see you there!
